a) Brazil unrest: 'Millions' join protests in 100 cities

More than a million people are reported to have taken part in protests in about a hundred cities across Brazil, the latest in a wave of demonstrations.

Violence erupted in many places and an 18-year-old man died when a car drove through a barricade in Sao Paulo state.

Protests began more than a week ago over high transport fares but are also highlighting corruption and the cost of next year's football World Cup.

The world is going green, but do we want to go yellow? Recycling our paper, plastic and metal goods has become common practice, but now scientists are recycling urine to extract precious nutrients before they hit the sewage system.

"Our attitude and whole approach to recycling will need to change as we come under increasing pressure to conserve valuable, non-renewable resources like Phosphorus," chief executive of the Institution of Chemical Engineers David Brown said.
